The Daily Gazette.

City of Janesville.

Saturday Evening, April 11, 1863.

Official Paper of the City.

Forever float that standard sheet—
Where breaks the foe but falls before us?
With Freedom's soil beneath our feet,
And Freedom's banner streaming o'er us!

From Charleston.

The news from Charleston is still through rebel sources. It is reported that iron-clads were repulsed on Tuesday, and that the Keokuk was sunk. It is also said that our troops were on the main land fighting, and that the shore batteries had been reduced by our forces. The iron-clads are still within the bar.

Gen. Fremont Sustained.

The many friends of Gen. Fremont throughout the country will rejoice to learn that his administration of the western department is fully sustained and endorsed by the report of the committee on the conduct of the war, except only in relation to the manner of constructing the forts at St. Louis. That they were necessary is admitted. On the whole, the committee say that "the administration of Fremont was eminently characterized by earnestness, ability and loyalty."

Thus falls to the ground the huge fabric of falsehood and detraction which has been reared to overshadow the good name of one of the purest patriots and able generals. It would be but manly on the part of his enemies now to make a retraction of their slanders, and we trust they will do so. If not, the people will see to it that justice is done in the case.

An Estimate.

A political friend, who considers himself a good figure, makes the following estimate of the vote for Chief Justice. We publish it, and will see how nearly it approximates the real result:

NEWSPAPER ARCHIVE®

From the Eighth Regiment.

On Board the FRAMER BEN FRANKLIN, New York, April 11, 1863.

Editors Gazette:—When you last heard from us, I told you we expected to go through Yazoo Pass, but some three days ago we received orders to embark, and after we all got in readiness the fleet pushed out from the Arkansas shore, and headed down stream. After having steamed about twenty-four hours, we landed on the Louisiana shore, on the rebel Benjamin's plantation, a splendid camping ground; but before the division got tents fairly pitched, orders came for us to embark again on the same transports that we had but a few hours before left. After unloading all of the quartermaster and commissary stores, we again embarked, and about 1 A. M., April 1st, we steamed down the Father of Waters, and this morning when I came from my berth, found we had arrived at the mouth of the Yazoo river, where the entire fleet lay. We there saw about one hundred transports and a large number of gunboats, besides the little fleet comprising the Marine Brigade. After reporting for orders, we again steamed up the river about two miles, where we now lay, tied up to the Louisiana shore. We will disembark as soon as possible.

A new canal is commenced here; two dredge boats, and about 300 negroes are at work. The lower canal is a failure. The rebels shelled our men from the work, and it had to be abandoned. As our division has always done the dirty work for this army, I suppose they thought they would send us to dig this canal. The ditch will be about one mile long here, and then enter a small stream leading into the Mississippi below Vicksburg; how it will work remains yet to be seen.

We are now in the 13th Army Corps, under Gen. Sherman, 8th Division, commanded by Gen. John E. Smith. We landed at Lake Providence on our way down and found several Wisconsin regiments there. The water is rushing through the country there at a fearful rate, caused by cutting the levee to pass into the lake. We here find splendid plantations all inundated by water, and many a traitor has come to grief by the works of the loyal soldiers of this army. Where we now are there are some splendid plantations, some of the finest in the south. The weather is very warm, to-day. The woods and fields are green with vegetation, and every thing has the appearance of June. The river is lined with transports, and everything looks as if something great was soon to be accomplished. Something good must result from the works of this great army and navy here, before many weeks. We have news here, to-day, from Farragut's fleet, that Foster could hold out seven or eight days. Communication in small boats had been made with him during the siege.

Fortress Monroe, April 7.—The Richmond Whig contains the following:

Vicksburg, April 7.—The enemy is withdrawing his troops from the peninsula. Yesterday all the tents were struck. Four large transports have gone up the river, loaded with troops. The enemy cut the levee and turned the water into their old camping grounds.

Jackson, Miss., April 7.—Farragut, with three vessels, is above Port Hudson. He signaled the lower fleet, but none have gone down the river yet. The Hartford landed at Bayou Sara in the morning and destroyed government stores. The lower fleet opened fire, lying out of the reach of our batteries. The federals have contracted their lines at Memphis.

Philadelphia, April 10.—The disturbances anticipated last night did not occur. This morning, Fibert, one of the accused Knights of the Golden Circle, who arrived here, was met by an immense crowd, and narrowly escaped punishment.

Cairo, April 10.—Special to the Chicago Journal.—Our news from below is meager.

A refugee from rebel service arrived here yesterday, having escaped from Vicksburg Sunday, a week ago. He says the rebels have about 75,000 men in and about Vicksburg, counting those at Fort Pemberton and Haines' Bluff. There is a great scarcity of food. He had subsisted for some time on one pint of corn meal per day and a few ounces of fresh meat per week. The rebels admit that if we succeed in getting in the rear of Vicksburg they will have to surrender or evacuate.

Gen. Osterhaus' division had reached Carthage, Louisiana, on the Mississippi, some ten miles below Warren. Admiral Farragut's boats have also gone below Warren. It is believed that Osterhaus will cross over and oppose Warrenton. Farragut's boats keep the rebels out of Warren.

Another canal is being dug from Young's Point to Grassy Lake, from which the river below is reached by a tortuous route. We cannot promise that it will be a success.

No transports have yet reached Lake Providence. The current is so swift that its roaring can be heard for miles. A tug was three hours going up half a mile. Transports would be dashed to pieces against the trees.

When the last steamer passed, General Steele's troops had all left Greenville. They have no doubt gone to Fort Pemberton.

New York, April 9.—A Baton Rouge letter of March 30, says:

"The rebels have 80,000 men at Port Hudson."

Gen. Banks arrived on Friday, and an order was issued for the whole division to be in readiness to march at an hour's notice, with three days' cooked rations. There had been no movement yet. This is to be the grand move on Port Hudson."

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, April 9.

The Richmond Whig of the 8th has the following dispatch:

"JACKSON, April 9.

"A New Orleans report of the 1st inst. says that Banks has crossed with 100,000 men at Donaldsonville, and has gone down the Bayou Plaquemine to reinforce Witten and attack the Bayou Teche country."

Convoys closed at 92½. Confederate loan 11½ all.

To-Day's Report.

MORNING DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, April 10.

Times correspondent.—The rebel pickets on the Rappahannock, last night hailed our men with an exclamation that Charleson had been captured by the Yankees, but today sung out, "You Yankees have been repulsed with the loss of several of your iron clads." The wind rendered unintelligible further conversation.

Commander Gillis, of the gunboat Com. Morris, has done some necessary work up Ware river, a tributary of York. A rebel named Patterson Smith, having 20,000 bushels of corn, which he was bargaining with the rebel government at Richmond, was arrested by Gillis, and all the corn on his plantation, except 150 bushels saved for his family and negroes, together with 2000 bushels of wheat, were burned. Gillis used a force of 100 men in this work, and had to fight a large body of rebel cavalry.

A Chattanooga telegram in the Richmond Despatch of April 7th, says: "Bob Johnson, son of Andrew Johnson, is reported captured by our cavalry."

The Tribune's despatch contains the following: Richmond papers to-day, found their way within our lines. They contain despatches from Charleston, dated 9 o'clock yesterday, a.m. saying in substance, all is quiet. The iron-clads are still within the bar. The Keokuk is sunk in sight, and articles from her have drifted ashore.

COLUMBIA COUNTY.—Lodi, Dixon 153, Cothren 56. West Point, Dixon 37 majority.

The town of Burnett, in Dodge county, gave Dixon 29 votes, Cothren 52, Noggs 44, Carpenter 17.

Be charitable; three cent pieces were made on purpose to be liberal.

Last Night's Report.

FORREST MONROE, April 10. The Richmond Whig of yesterday contains the following:

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 7.—The attack upon Charleston commenced to-day. Four iron-clads are engaged. The firing from the fleet upon Fort Sumter and Moultrie is very heavy. The Ironsides was hit and ran ashore, but subsequently got off range. At two o'clock nine monitors and the Ironsides opened fire at a distance of 3,000 yards.

"At thirty minutes past three the firing both sides became incessant. It was kept up until five o'clock, when it gradually diminished. The fire of the fleet was concentrated on Sumter. The Ironsides and Keokuk withdrew, apparently disabled.

NEW YORK, April 11.

Herald's despatch.—It is reported here that the land battery had been reduced by our forces at Charleston. This I am told is admitted by the rebel pickets on the Rappahannock.

WASHINGTON, April 10, midnight.

Nothing official has been received to-day in reference to affairs at Charleston. Dispatches from Richmond papers, yesterday, the latest intelligence that has reached here from any source. It is believed that these telegrams are mutatis mutandis of official dispatches. The anxiety for further news here superseded everything else.

Some of the government officers are confident of success, but this confidence is not believed by some of the calmest thinkers who have access to all the information there is upon the subject.

NEW YORK, April 11.

The following is additional relative to the position of Gen. Foster. It is stated that the rebel force on the other side of the Blackwater were under marching orders on the 8th, with two days cooked rations, and four day's rations besides, unprepared. A force of Union cavalry and artillery, under Gen. Dodge, were out for the purpose of capturing a detached rebel force in that vicinity. The last heard from them, on Thursday, they had met the enemy, had skirmished with them, and had taken some prisoners.

Reports from North Carolina, via Edenton, state that Washington, N. C., had been burned, but by whom was not stated. In the direction of Franklin, the rebels had greatly strengthened their pickets and outposts, and had advanced their cavalry pickets. This news was brought from Suffolk by a reconnoitering force that had been sent from that post, and from the Richmond Despatch of the 9th, which says:

"We have news from Washington, N. C., as late as Sunday. Our troops have captured the enemy's batteries at Hills, situated on the bank of Tar River, seven miles below the town, which position gives us an open field and a fair fight with the Yankee shipping."

Two gunboats, followed by several large transports loaded with troops from Newbern to reinforce Washington, attempted to run our blockade at Hill's Point Friday, when they were fired upon by our batteries and so badly damaged as to be forced to put back. They control the pass on the Gens, and at last accounts the enemy were landing troops below our works at Hill's Point. In an attempt to go by the steamer Lillian, a gunboat, on account of the great distance of witnesses, in relation to the administration of Fremont, the committee reported to the Secretary of War that the testimony was conflicting, without any recommendation as to what should be done. It afterwards appeared from testimony of Gen. McCall, that Gen. Stone was arrested on a written order of the Secretary of War, for the reason that he had been informed by members of the Committee on a state, key, for that purpose, in the bookstore of G. J. Deardorff, corner of Main and Milwaukee streets. JOS. HANLEY, Superintendent.

In reference to the arrest of Gen. Stone, the committee say that they informed Secretaries Cameron and Stanton that some explanation was required by Stone, and made explanations in general term, concerning the testimony against him, in regard to his intercourse with the enemy, &c. The committee reported to the Secretary of War that the testimony was conflicting, without any recommendation as to what should be done. It afterwards appeared from testimony of Gen. McCall, that Gen. Stone was arrested on a written order of the Secretary of War, for the reason that he had been informed by members of the Committee on a state, key, for that purpose, in the bookstore of G. J. Deardorff, corner of Main and Milwaukee streets. JOS. HANLEY, Superintendent.

From Charleston.

The news from Charleston is still through rebel sources. It is reported that our iron-clads were repulsed on Tuesday, and that the Keokuk was sunk. It is also said that our troops were on the main land fighting, and that the shore batteries had been reduced by our forces. The iron-clads are still within the bar.

Gen. Fremont Sustained.

The many friends of Gen. Fremont throughout the country will rejoice to learn that his administration of the western department is fully sustained and endorsed by the report of the committee on the conduct of the war, except only in relation to the manner of constituting the forts at St. Louis. That they were necessary is admitted. On the whole, the committee say that "the administration of Fremont was eminently characterized by earnestness, ability and loyalty."

Thus falls to the ground the huge fabric of falsehood and detraction which has been reared to overshadow the good name of one of the purest patriots and able generals. It would be but manly on the part of his enemies now to make a retraction of their slanders, and we trust they will do so. If not, the people will see to it that justice is done in the case.

On Board the Steamer BEN FRANKLIN.
Near Vickburg, April 1st, 1863.

Editors' Gazette.—When you last heard from us, I told you we expected to go through Yazoo Pass, but some three days ago we received orders to embark, and after we all got in readiness the fleet pushed out from the Arkansas shore, and headed down stream. After having steamed about twenty-four hours, we landed on the Louisiana shore, on the rebel Benjamin's plantation, a splendid camping ground; but before the division got tents fairly pitched, orders came for us to embark again on the same transports that we had but a few hours before left. After unloading all of the quartermaster and commissary stores, we again embarked, and about 1 a. m., April 1st, we steamed down the Father of Waters, and this morning when I came from my berth, found we had arrived at the mouth of the Yazoo river, where the entire fleet lay. We then saw about one hundred transports and a large number of gunboats, besides the little fleet comprising the Marine Brigade. After reporting for orders, we again steamed up the river about two miles, where we now lay, tied up to the Louisiana shore. We will depart as soon as possible.

A new canal is commenced here; two dredge boats, and about 300 negroes are at work, and the shore batteries had been reduced by our forces. The iron-clads are still within the bar.

WASHINGTON, April 10, midnight.

Nothing official has been received to-day in reference to affairs at Charleston. Dispatches from Richmond papers, yesterday, show the latest intelligence from which the rebels are suffering. He states he has called the legislature together for the express purpose of considering the proper means to be taken to provide food for the army and the people.
